Global travel has been impacted by COVID-19 and remains unpredictable. Your plans may be disrupted at short notice. Be aware of the risks of travelling at this time and make informed decisions about your travel.

Greece
A curfew from midnight to 7am is in place for bars and restaurants in some mainland areas and islands. Face masks are mandatory in all indoor retail and public service spaces. Entry requirements are in place due to COVID-19. An online Passenger Locator Form (PLF) must be completed at least 24 hours before arrival in Greece by air, sea or land.

Croatia
Travel to Croatia is restricted for non-EU nationals due to COVID-19. Some exemptions may apply. If you’re allowed to enter Croatia, you’ll need to self-isolate for 14 days, or present a negative COVID-19 test (PCR) taken within 48 hours of your arrival. You must wear a face mask on public transport, in taxis, shops and other indoor areas. Follow the advice of local authorities.

Malta
Malta has restricted visitors entering, unless you’ve travelled from an approved (‘green’) area and have stayed there for 2 weeks before entering. Travelling from areas on the ‘amber’ list will need to provide a negative COVID-19 test (PCR) performed within 72 hours prior to arriving. You may be granted an exemption if you’re not from an approved area and your travel is for essential purposes. In those cases, other restrictions will apply. You must wear face masks or visors in enclosed public areas, including shops, the airport and on public transport. No more than 15 people can gather in groups in public spaces. You may be fined for not wearing a mask or gathering in larger groups.

Jordan
Jordan’s international airport has reopened to limited scheduled flights. If you fly there despite our advice, you’ll need to register on the Visit Jordan website and have PCR tests conducted at country of departure and on arrival. Quarantine requirements depend on where you’ve flown in from. Some other restrictions remain in place and may change at short notice, including lockdowns. Monitor government announcements as well as media sources.

Egypt
There is a nationwide partial curfew from 12am to 4am. Restrictions are in place and face masks are mandatory in public places. International flights resumed in July, but options remain limited. Some airlines have semi-regular flights out of Egypt. Contact your airline for information. If you travel to Egypt despite our advice, you’ll need to provide evidence of a negative COVID-19 test taken with 72 hours prior to your travel departure. Children under the age of sex (6) are exempt. Other health measures may be required. Check with your airline prior to travel.

Israel
You won’t be able to enter Israel unless you’re an Israeli citizen or resident or can demonstrate your ‘life is based in Israel’. Authorities have imposed rules on social distancing, public gatherings and wearing masks. There is a nationwide lockdown scheduled from 18 September until 11 October. If you’re in Israel and wish to leave, do so as soon as possible by commercial means. Flight options are limited. The Palestinian Authority has measures in place to restrict the spread of COVID-19, including restrictions at tourist and religious sites. Gaza’s two entry and exit points remain closed.

Italy
If you’re in Italy, you can now move freely between all its regions. You’ll need to complete a self-declaration form before you travel to Italy. In all public spaces, you must follow social distancing protocols and use face coverings or protective masks in line with regional measures. Monitor and follow the advice of local authorities. For more information on measures, see Italian Ministry of Health website and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs website.

Morocco
Morocco is under a State of Emergency. Entry to Morocco is restricted. If you’re permitted to enter Morocco, you must undergo COVID-19 testing (PCR and serological) taken in the 48 hours before you depart. These two tests will be required at boarding when travelling by air. If you travel to Morocco by sea, you’ll have the choice between providing your own test results when boarding OR undergoing testing on the ferry. You’ll also need to complete a passenger health form online to be presented on arrival.

Qatar
If you normally reside in Qatar but are currently overseas, you can apply to return to Qatar from 1 August. If you’re travelling to Qatar from a country designated as ‘COVID low risk’ you may be able to quarantine at home under strict conditions. For more information call 109 from inside Qatar or +974 44069999 from outside Qatar, or contact the nearest Qatari embassy or consulate. Australians can transit through Qatar.

Spain
COVID-19 control measures are in place throughout the country. Further restrictions may be implemented at short notice. Social distancing and other health-related measures, including the use of face masks, vary by region. You can be fined if you don’t comply. Follow the advice of local authorities.

Turkey
Turkey has largely reopened its international land, sea and air borders. Many scheduled international flights have resumed. Everyone arriving into Turkey will be subject to medical checks. The wearing of face masks is mandatory at all times outside the home throughout Turkey. Localised lockdowns or curfews may be in place.

United Arab Emirates
If you’re entering or transiting the UAE, you’ll need a negative COVID-19 (PCR) test result within four days before you travel. If you’re a Dubai resident, you’ll need an online approval from the General Directorate of Residency and Foreign Affairs (GDRFA) to enter. If you’re headed to Abu Dhabi, a 14 day quarantine either at home or at a designated facility is mandatory and you’ll be required to wear a medically approved wristband. Some exemptions apply. These requirements may change at short notice. Contact your airline directly for the latest update on entry or exit requirements.

Oman
International flights are scheduled to resume from 1 October. Check with your airline for the latest information. You’ll need a permit to enter the country and will be subject to 14 days quarantine on arrival and wear a tracking bracelet.

Portugal
Portugal permits Australians to enter from some destinations, but rules vary depending on where your flight originates and transits. Portugal has raised the emergency response level across the country (excluding the Islands of the Azores and Madeira) to State of Contingency in response to the spread of COVID-19. Strict hygiene and social distancing rules are in place, including gathering limits and compulsory use of masks on public transport and in shops and other public spaces. Measures change often. Monitor and follow the advice of local authorities.
