Getting Around

Organised tours are the best way to explore as they allow access to the main must see sights. Public transport such as local trains and buses do not take you right to the door steps of the attractions but only to the closest main town. If you don't wish to take a coach tour, car rental and self-drive packages can be organised, however be mindful that driving in Turkey involves long distances, that there is traffic congestion in major cities and the universal urban challenge of finding a parking spot is always there.

Shopping

Turkey's bustling bazaars, markets, shops and stalls make this country an ideal shopping destination. Istanbul's Grand Bazaar hosts over 4000 stores where you need to be prepared to bargain, as this is an important part of your shopping trip and can give you that bargain you are looking for. This is the reason why many flock to Turkey specifically for the shopping. Best buys include leather goods, textiles, stunning jewellery and local delicacies such as Turkish Delight. In rural areas, markets are colourful and vibrant, and is the best place to come across unique products and handmade items, such as rugs and angora bedspreads. Other crafts made of suede, copper, bronze, or ceramics, are also unique in nature including the famous Meerschaum Pipes.

Getting There

By Air: Emirates, Etihad, Singapore fly daily from Australia. Several other airlines have connections via European cities.

By Sea from Greece: Daily from April to October from Greece: from Samos Island to Kusadasi, from Kos Island to Bodrum and from Rhodes Island to Marmaris. There is no ferry from Athens to Istanbul or vice-versa.

Accommodation

Turkey's hotels cater for a wide range of tastes and budgets. From the opulent Ottoman Sultans' Palaces to traditional estates and simply furnished hotels, Turkey has something to suit everyone. It is essential to pre-book accommodation before arriving in Turkey to avoid risking unavailability and for peace of mind.

*Please note that surcharges may apply during Special Event periods.

Things to Do

Istanbul: Istanbul is not only historic but is also fascinating and vividly alive. As such there are many unique and wonderful places to visit including the Blue Mosque, supremely elegant imperial six minaret mosque of Sultanahmet I, known because of the magnificent blue tiles. Hagia Sophia, built by Constantine and widely considered to be an architectural marvel. Topkapi Palace which was the official residence of the Sultans for more than 400 years. The Suleymaniye Mosque, built by Suleyman the Magnificent and covered in fine white marble and stained glass windows. The Grand Bazaar which is a maze of over 4000 shops. A stay in Istanbul is not complete without a traditional boat trip along the Bosphorus.

Gallipoli: Visit the Gallipoli Peninsula, the scene of one of the bloodiest campaigns of World War I in which the Anzacs laid down their lives. Visit the many sights around this area including ANZAC Cove, Lone Pine Cemetery, Johnston's Jolly (trenches and tunnels), The Nek and Chunuk Bair New Zealand Memorial. Perhaps take a morning tour of the archaeological sight of Troy, home to the Trojan Horse and the legendary story of Achilles as told by Homer.
